

Invasion of Iwo Jima

Seemingly endless lines of landing barges speed toward shore of Iwo Jima from an 800-ship armada as the 4th and 5th Marine Divisions—30,000 men—launch their invasion of the island, 730 miles south of Tokyo, on Feb. 19. Land mass in background is Suribachi Yama, an extinct volcano at the narrow southwestern end of the five-mile-long island. This picture was taken from a Navy plane and transmitted by radio-telephoto to San Francisco from Guam.

All Entertainment After 12 Midnight Banned by Byrnes

Night Clubs, Bars, Sports Events are Affected by "Requested" Curfew

(By The Associated Press)
A midnight curfew decreed by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes will go into effect Monday on all bars, night clubs, road houses—all night life, public or private, from New York's carriage trade gay spots to the myriad juke box places in the nation's small towns.

Byrnes' "request," having the effect of an order and backed by the disciplinary powers of four war agencies, was directed last night to "all places of entertainment."

Reaction among entertainment leaders ranged from enthusiastic assurances of support to declarations such as "we're ruined" and predictions of a return of the speakeasy.

The text of the Washington announcement said:

"Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion James F. Byrnes announced today that he is requesting all places of entertainment to close by 12 o'clock midnight every day, effective Feb. 26.

"By closing at 12 o'clock midnight it is meant that patrons shall leave in time to permit full closing by that time.

"Places of entertainment are intended to include all night clubs, sports arenas, theaters, dance halls, road houses, saloons, bars, and other similar enterprises, whether public or private, excluding restaurants engaged exclusively in serving food. The purpose of this request is primarily to save coal consumed in heating and in providing electricity. But it will also be helpful in the fields of transportation, manpower, and in other ways."

Other Agencies to Help

Byrnes said he would ask the War Manpower Commission to "deny ceilings to any places violating this request." He also said the War Production Board, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration would be asked for support.

Unofficially it was thought the ODT could act against offenders by preventing delivery of supplies and by exercising taxicab and bus controls. The WPC could cut off power, fuel and materials. The OPA could halt rationing and fuel oil.

Nash L. Brownstein, spokesman for the New York Cafe Owners' Guild, said the request would result in "a lot of unemployment," and added: "It will be a definite invitation for the return of the speakeasy days."

Call It "Dry Week"

William Hopkins, president of the Philadelphia Cafe Owners' Association and first vice president of the National Tavern Association, said "This is not a war move—it's a dry move. We voted on prohibition years ago, and we voted it out. Byrnes or Mr. Byrnes, I'm going to operate as usual."

Michael Hannigan, president of the Illinois Tavern Owners' Association, said the early closing might mean the difference between profit and loss for amusement places. He suggested that license fees should be reduced because of the earlier closing hours.

In Hollywood a night club owner declared: "The musicians are the ones who will be hit hard. I think this is just a crack at music czar James Petrol."

Some Favorable Reaction

But a preponderance of the response was favorable.

Canadians Clear Goch; Withstand 5 Nazi Counterblows

U. S. Seventh Army Seizes 5 Towns, Nears Key City of Saarbrücken

Paris, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Canadian First Army troops virtually cleared Goch today, but furious German counterattacks to the northeast broke through allied lines and seized positions on the Goch-Calcar road.

Gen. Henry Crerar hastily threw in tank and troop reinforcements both along the road and in the Moyland area north of Calcar, and furious fighting was underway tonight, a front dispatch declared.

The Germans hit viciously in the Moyland area and at positions on the road from Goch to Calcar.

Southwest of Goch, however, Scottish and British troops advancing 1,500 yards seized Bucholt and Halverston.

Seventh Widens Front

At the opposite flank, the American Seventh Army widened its resurgent front inside the industrial Saarland and captured five towns in a move to within three and a half miles and sight of the

Minesweeper Lost In Pacific Action

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The motor minesweeper YMS 48 has been lost in the Philippine area as a result of enemy action.

The Navy, announcing this today, made no reference to total casualties but said next of kin have been notified. Normal complement of a ship of that type is approximately 30 officers and men.

The last known skipper of the YMS 48 was Lt. (j. g.) Howard A. Lauser, New York City, who was listed as a survivor.

The Navy explained that another officer was under orders to assume command of the vessel but it was not known here whether the transfer had been made before the vessel was lost. The new skipper also was known to be safe, the Navy said, without identifying him.

Loss of the YMS 48 brought the total of all Naval vessels lost since the start of the war to 210 ships. In addition 12 are listed as overdue and presumed lost, and ten destroyed to prevent capture, making a grand total of 262.

Below Normal

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—January temperatures in Illinois averaged 2.8 degrees below normal and were the coldest for that month in five years.

Snowfall of 7.8 inches was two inches more than usual and the precipitation average of 1.08 inches was 1.21 below normal. The Springfield weather bureau reported today.

Million Dollar Fire Threatens Joliet Industrial District Today; None Hurt

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Five warehouses containing supplies belonging to three other industries were destroyed in a million dollar fire early today.

The blaze occurred in the heart of Joliet's industrial section, a nest of 25 buildings in an 11-acre plot. Some 14 different industries are housed in the area and firemen for a time were apprehensive that a strong southwest wind would spread the blaze to these.

The destroyed buildings were owned by the Joliet Paper Company, Inc., an investment firm. H. I. Brubaker, secretary-treasurer, set the loss at $1,000,000 for the buildings and $500,000 for their contents. He said insurance would partially cover the destruction.

The warehouses contained supplies of roofing materials owned by the Rubberoid Company, cork of the Hutchinson Cork Company, and wallpaper of the United Wallpaper Company.

Cause of the blaze remained undetermined, and firemen said it probably would be several days before an examination of the ruins could be made. The first alarm came at 11 p. m. (Central War Time), and the fire was not under control until 2:30 a. m.

For a time firemen feared the flames would spread to the plant and warehouse of the Midwest Chemical Company, but the combined efforts of firemen and the plant's night staff saved the building.

First reports said the buildings had been destroyed but firemen explained later the close grouping of the structures and the intensity of the blaze made it impossible to judge the number involved.

No one was reported injured.

Howitzers Open Up On Intramuros

Seek to Clear Way for Infantry and Tanks to Clear Manila

Manila, Feb. 20.—(AP)—American heavy howitzers tore holes in the thick outer walls of Manila's Intramuros (walled city) today to clear the way for tanks and infantrymen determined to wipe out the last major Japanese stronghold in the capital and free 7,000 civilian hostages.

It was possible some of the civilians already had reached freedom by risking heavy enemy fire to slip into the waterfront area and escape in small boats.

While 11th Airborne and First Cavalry Yanks entered extensive Fort William McKinley, at the southern outskirts of the capital, 37th Division troops wheeled big howitzers over pontoon bridges spanning the Pasig and began shelling medieval Intramuros walls 40 feet thick at the base.

Three days ago Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold asked the Japanese commander in the Intramuros to liberate the civilians within the walls in exchange for honorable surrender. No formal answer was forthcoming, so the Americans proceeded to knock the walls down.

Part of Wall Breached

By noon yesterday a considerable portion of the outer wall had been breached, but further pounding will be necessary before tanks and troops can move in.

The 37th Division and elements of the First Cavalry were girding for a final assault on the spot in which the cornered Japanese are determined to make a bloody final stand.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing continued mopping up of Japanese on Corregidor and Bataan, also reported the capture of Fort William McKinley in his communique today.

Patrols entered the Fort annex and occupied most of the old military area, but officers were hesitating to claim the complete capture of the fort until mopping up

Fire Fighters Meet Here Thursday Night

About 250 members of fire departments of northwest Illinois will be in Dixon Thursday evening for their regular February gathering, which is to be held at the Elks club house. The Illinois Northern Utilities Company is to be the host of the evening and has arranged an excellent program for the entertainment of the members of the Blackhawk Fire Fighters' association.

Victor H. Tinsley, electrical field engineer for the National Fire Protection Association, will be the principal speaker of the evening and in addition to his address, motion pictures and practical demonstrations of the various kinds and types of wiring, showing both correct and incorrect installations, will be provided for the visitors. At the conclusion of the scheduled program, refreshments will be served and a social time will be enjoyed. Frank C. Kingsley of the I. N. U. Co., and Fire Chief Albert Fordyce have completed plans for the entertainment of the visiting fire fighters.

Nuernberg Rail Yards Target of 8th AAF

London, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The vast railroad yards and locomotive repair shops at Nuernberg, 30 miles north of Munich, were blasted by 500 Flying Fortress today in the eighth straight day of the aerial offensive against the rich. The bombers were escorted on the long haul across the dangerous Nazi fighter belt by about 700 Mustangs and Thunderbolts which flew in relays from British and French bases.

It was the Eighth Air Force's fourth successive strike at vital railroads in an effort to paralyze German transportation headed for the front lines.

Other bombers from Italy also were reported attacking from the south.

Counting today's operations, the allies have hit German railroads with 1,200 bombers every 24 hours since last Tuesday.

Strong Support for Substitute Work-or-Fight Legislation

(By The Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 20.—An hour after receiving a memo from President Roosevelt requesting speedy enactment of work-or-fight legislation, the senate military committee voted today to consider a much milder substitute.

Senators Kilgore (D-W. Va.), Wagner (D-N.Y.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Ball (R-Minn.) joined Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) as co-authors of the new measure. It would authorize the War Manpower Commission, acting under direction of War Mobilizer Byrnes, to set employment ceilings in designated plants or areas and to regulate or even prohibit the hiring of new workers by employers.

While the vote to consider the substitute did not necessarily pre-empt its adoption, the maneuver at least temporarily displaced the house-approved work-jail bill.

It was to the latter measure Roosevelt referred in a memorandum to senate majority leader Barkley. Dated Feb. 11 but presented to the committee only today, it said:

Note from President
"I hope that legislation embracing the principle of the May bill can be speedily enacted. It will assure the armed services they can rely on the flow of necessary supplies and greatly contribute to the success of our arms."

Both Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the senate committee and Senator Chandler (D-Ky.), a member, expressed belief that "a bill" might be approved today.

Meanwhile, Chandler criticized War Secretary Stimson's recent radio appeal for coercive legislation.

Said Chandler: "Secretary Stimson's criticism of the committee has solidified opposition to the house measure. Some of the members thought he went out of his way to be insulting."

The O'Mahoney bill would empower War Mobilizer Byrnes to channel war contracts from areas where labor is scarce to surplus labor areas and authorize Manpower Commissioner McNutt to require the Army, Navy and other federal agencies to give advance notice of the termination of old contracts and the prospective awarding of new ones, and make independent investigations of hoarding and wastage of labor in war plants.

With Henry Wallace apparently gaining strength in advance of the senate's March 1 vote on his confirmation as commerce secretary, some opponents of the former vice president reasoned that they have placed him in an enviable political position. Net result of the congressional battle against Wallace they note, was to pave his way to a cabinet portfolio minus responsibility for government lending.

Said one senator who helped head the fight against confirmation: "If we confirm him, he can continue to advocate a full employment program without any responsibility for attempting to put it into effect."

The War Production Board promises a larger supply of inexpensive clothing about July. WPE is channeling most of the rayon and wool supply to low and medium-priced garments. This matches similar action taken previously with cotton. OPA likewise

Amphibious Force Invades Iwo Jima

Two divisions of the U. S. Radio Tokyo concedes that the Americans have won footholds on the south, southwest and east coasts of the heavily bombarded island.

Reds Punch Holes in Nazi Defenses Guarding Berlin

Konev on the Offensive Again After Halting German Attacks

London, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Russian troops have punched several deep breaches in German lines on a 65-mile front stretching within 50 to 60 miles of Berlin and Dresden, the German high command declared today.

It indicated Marshal Ivan Konev had resumed his push toward these two cities after withstanding German counterattacks which Berlin only last night said had swept back into four towns.

The German communique declared Konev breached German lines in the areas of Guben, 11 miles southeast of Berlin, at Sorau, 28 miles farther southeast, and at Lauban, 61 miles east of Dresden.

A later broadcast said Konev was attacking Lauban and thrusting for Gorchitz 12 miles beyond on the Neisse river 49 miles from

Vote Saturday on Supervisor Post

Voters of Dixon township will participate in a referendum Saturday afternoon which has been called for the purpose of breaking a deadlock in the township board of appointment in its effort to name a successor to the late Supervisor David H. Spencer. Two meetings of the town board of appointment resulted in a deadlock with A. C. Higby and Frank C. Sproul, both now serving as assistant supervisors, as the candidates for the office.

The polling place will be on the second floor of the city hall building and the voting will be from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The recipient of the largest number of votes cast at this special meeting of the board of appointment will become the Dixon township supervisor and receive the appointment from the town board.

Judges of the special meeting will be: Robert M. Moore, Sterling D. Schrock and Mrs. Viola R. Rieley, the clerks being: Marie Handoll, Josephine Fallstrom and Mrs. Loretta Biddle.

Walnut Soldier Among Casualties From Western Front Returning Home Today

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Nearly a thousand western front casualties, soldiers with empty sleeves and empty faces, with vivid scars on their bodies and invisible brands on their souls, have arrived here from Europe aboard three army transports.

A count of heads at the New York port of embarkation yesterday showed 958 veterans, some broken in body some in spirit were back from European holocaust. They came from homes in Maine to California, from metropolitan areas and farms. They came 27 of them from Illinois.

Western Front: Canadian First Army drive virtually cleared Siegfried bastion of Goch after fierce fighting; repelled vicious counterattacks in Calcar area; Americans widened Eifel mountain front, and in Saar basin, took Auerstueck, six miles southeast of Saarbrücken.

Russian Front: Germans counterattacked strongly due east of Berlin as two Red armies maneuvered for what may be great new push; Koenigsberg, Breslau siege rings tightened; Russians captured Nowe, 47 miles from Dniepzig in Polish Corridor.

Italian Front: Americans improved positions in patrol jobs.

Over a Million Key War Workers Exempt

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Instead of "a very limited number," as officially announced, approximately 1,250,000 men under 30 who hold key jobs in war industries stand to be deferred from the draft.

This became known today when an official of Selective Service acknowledged that the new program allows the deferment of 30 per cent of all registrants who were classified 2-A and 2-B as of Jan. 1.

Since 4,198,000 men were in the two classes, which cover deferments in occupations other than agriculture, government agencies will be allowed to pick out a total of roughly a million and a quarter of registrants for deferments. Because the draft is not taking war plant workers over 30, the 30 per cent of the total will be composed of those under 30.

Each of 15 agencies is allowed certification of a flat 30 per cent in their respective spheres of activity.

Appointments

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Louis Grampp of Dixon has been named state park supervisor effective April 1, and John Ufferts of Oregon has been appointed custodian of the new Lowden Memorial near Oregon, home of the former governor, the department of public works and buildings announced today.

Japanese, still holding the wide, northern end of the island, poured artillery, mortar and rifle fire down on the Yanks and put up their stiffest fight for the southern airfield.

Motoyama airfield number 2 lies just north of the American-held territory, won in the fiercest fighting of all on the island.

Report Tank Battle

Nimitz made no mention of tanks which eye-witnesses said had been thrown into the battle. Tokyo radio reported a tank battle underway on the plateau in the center of the island occupied by the prized southern airfield.

Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, commanding the amphibious operation, said of Iwo:

"It is as well a defended fixed position as exists in the world today. It is small but better defended."

Iwo Jima Fighting Terrific

Yankees Cut Off South Part of Isle in Face of Frantic Fire

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 20.—(AP)—American Marines seized the southern airfield on southern Iwo Jima today after smashing through Japanese defenses as "fanatically defended as any in the Pacific," Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced.

Veteran Marines mowed a path clear across the island extending in an irregular wedge shape from two and a half miles long on the east coast to 1,000 yards on the west.

Newly captured territory reaches from the northern slopes of Suribachi, Japanese volcano fortress on the southern tip of the island, now cut off from the northern defenders, to the northern edge of prized Motoyama airfield No. 1.

Last night a battalion of Japanese attacked in full strength down the runway to the southern edge of the air strip, but the 27th Marine regiment beat it back fiercely and drove off the Japanese remnants.

Sporadic artillery and mortar fire fell on American beaches on both sides of the island throughout the night, but U. S. forces continued to unload more supplies, reinforcements and artillery.

Continuous Bombardment

American night fighters broke up several Japanese air attempts to counterattack, while Pacific Fleet units maintained a continuous bombardment of the highly prized airfield island 750 miles south of Tokyo.

Territory captured by the veteran Fifth Marine Corps in two days of fighting represents about one-quarter of the nine-square mile island.

The communique was the second somber-toned release issued by advanced Pacific Fleet headquarters tonight on the toughest battle in the American Marines history.

In his first report today Nimitz said American losses in smashing across the southern end of the island were relatively light but were heavier on the northern flank of the original beachhead where the Yanks battered up unprotected slopes to envelop the airfield.

Toughest Fight

"The fight is the toughest we've run across in 165 years," Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of Marine Corps forces in the Pacific told Associated Press Correspondent Morrie Landsberg aboard sea forces standing off the island.

Landsberg reported thousands more Marines were pouring ashore to smash down the Japanese entrenched in a network of caves on the rugged, volcanic island and apparently in dread of losing the airfield island from which Tokyo could be raided by light bombers and fighter planes.

Japanese, still holding the wide, northern end of the island, poured artillery, mortar and rifle fire down on the Yanks and put up their stiffest fight for the southern airfield.

Motoyama airfield number 2 lies just north of the American-held territory, won in the fiercest fighting of all on the island.

Report Tank Battle

Nimitz made no mention of tanks which eye-witnesses said had been thrown into the battle. Tokyo radio reported a tank battle underway on the plateau in the center of the island occupied by the prized southern airfield.

Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, commanding the amphibious operation, said of Iwo:

Mendota Nurse, 52, En Route to States When Taken Captive

Lt. Anschicks Released
From Nip Prison Camp
in Philippines

Second Lt. Louise Anschicks, 52, Mendota, whose release with other Army nurses from Philippine prison camps was announced yesterday by the war department—as recorded in Monday's Telegraph—served as a Red Cross worker in the first World War.

The daughter of Mrs. Katherine Anschicks, route 1, Mendota, Lt. Anschicks was serving at Fort Mills, Corregidor, when the Japanese overran Bataan. Escaping in a plane with several other Army nurses, she was en route back to the United States when the plane developed engine trouble and was forced to land on an island in the Philippines.

Japs Notified Mother
Shortly after the plane crash, the lieutenant's mother received word through a short wave broadcast arranged by the Japanese government that she had been taken prisoner and was well. About a year and a half ago Mrs. Anschicks received a form card bearing her daughter's signature, the last word she was to hear from her until yesterday, when the nurses' liberation was made known.

During the first World War, Lt. Anschicks was a Red Cross worker but did not see foreign duty. Immediately following the armistice, however, she became an Army nurse and has since served in various Army hospitals throughout the United States. She was stationed at Letterman General hospital, San Francisco, Calif., before going to the Philippines in the fall of 1940.

Tax Lesson

BY JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Feb. 20—(AP)—Here are the three prime things to remember about the new 1945 tax date deadline. Not everyone will have to worry about all three. The three are:

1. Filing a return on 1944 income.
 2. Making an estimate on 1945 income and paying the first installment of tax due to the IRS.
 3. Paying the unforfeited part of tax due on 1944 income.
- Let's take the three groups who have to do something about taxes by March 15.
- Group 1. You—man, woman, child, married or single—must file a tax return if you had income of $500 or more in 1944 even though you're sure the full tax was withheld from it during the year.
- And if you have a dependent—your child, for instance—who had income of less than $500 you do not have to include or report that income in making your return.

But—if your wife had any income, no matter how small, you can not claim the usual $500 exemption for her unless you include her income in a joint return.

If you made less than $500 and taxes were withheld from it, you can get a return on those taxes by filing a return.

The parent of a child who earned $500 or more can't claim him as a dependent even though the parent contributed to more than half the child's support in 1944.

Group 2. This is a little tricky, so watch it. This year full taxes will be withheld from wages and salaries up to $5,000 in it.

Anyone—except wage-earners—who expect to make more than $500 and some wage-earners who expect to make more than $5,000 will have to do it.

File an estimate on the amount of tax they figure they'll owe over the tax regularly withheld from them and by March 15 pay the first quarterly installment on that estimated tax.

And these are the people who have to do that:

A. A wage-earner who expects to earn more than $5,000, plus $500 for every exemption except his own.

B. Note this well: If a person expects more than $100 income outside of wages from which tax is withheld, and if his total income is $500 or more, he must file an estimate and start paying the tax.

Group 3. Some people will have to pay that unforfeited tax on their 1944 income.

If you're in this group you'll receive, if you haven't already, a bill from the internal revenue collector for the amount due. Just pay it. There's no figuring to be done.

Pool of Agricultural Machinery Proposed

Washington, Feb. 20—(AP)—Creation of a pool of agricultural machinery solely for use of returning veterans is proposed by Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.).

Introducing the legislation, Wherry told the senate that present production of farm machinery represents the "absolute minimum" necessary for those now engaged in farming.

"This means," he said, "that the returning veteran can not possibly obtain that equipment until his name comes to the top of the customer's list, which may take anywhere from a few months to years."

Other bills introduced in the senate included:

La Follette (Pro-Wis). Lucas (D-Ill.) and Thomas (D-Utah)—Declaring certain fur-bearing animals raised in captivity to be domestic animals and agricultural products.

Gold in Junk

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 20—(AP)—There was gold in that junk heap. Probate Judge Morris J. Hinchcliff approved a bid of $4,315 for 110 automobiles stripped of their parts 50 old auto tires, an old boat, assorted auto parts and some hunting and fishing equipment which belonged to the late Frank Carmack and which made up a junk heap on a vacant lot. The material was purchased for an auto wrecking and parts firm.

Alfalfa Provides Need Nitrogen to Provide Big Yield

On most cultivated land nitrogen scarcity is a bottleneck in the production of high yields of corn and grain, states L. B. Miller, assistant chief, soil experiment fields, University of Illinois college of agriculture. Legumes, like alfalfa and clovers, are commonly used to restore nitrogen supplies. Nitrogen-fixing bacteria live on the roots of such plants and perform their miracle of transforming atmospheric nitrogen to a form that can be used by plants.

Alfalfa is especially efficient as a host plant because, in addition to producing a nitrogen-rich top growth which can be plowed under, it also fills the soil to a considerable depth with roots which are high in nitrogen. The growing of alfalfa, even when large crops of hay are removed, usually leaves a favorable nitrogen balance in the soil, Miller added.

Potash Required
In supplying other plant nutrients, alfalfa, like other legumes, has no advantage over non-legumes. The removal of a two-ton crop of alfalfa takes from the soil almost as much phosphorus and five times as much potash as is contained in 60 bushels of corn.

This high requirement of alfalfa for potash was demonstrated in 1944 in a red clover field in Mason county. Miller reported that part of the field had produced alfalfa continuously for four years, while the remainder was growing a rotation of corn, oats, wheat and red clover. Following the alfalfa, the rotation was resumed on both parts of the field.

Production figures showed that the yield of red clover in 1944 was more than twice as heavy on that portion which was in regular rotation compared with the area where alfalfa had been grown. Potash-treated strips in this area produced normal red clover and demonstrated the postash-depleting effect of continuous alfalfa. The soil was black, sandy loam, which has a rather low supply of available potash.

Miller believes that alfalfa deserves its fine reputation as a soil builder. He pointed out that the greatest benefits take place during the first year or two of growth, when nitrogen and organic material are accumulated in the soil at a rapid rate.

Disappointing yields of corn or other crops following several years of alfalfa may be due to potash deficiency and can be overcome by using barnyard manure or other potash-rich fertilizers.

Seek Missing Airman in Fortress Mishap

Valdosta, Ga., Feb. 20—(AP)—While rescue parties still looked today for the last of a 20-man Flying Fortress crew, eight of the fliers who parachuted from their disabled plane Sunday were receiving medical attention at Moody field.

Lt. E. M. Rogers, Xenia, Ill., was listed at the medical center as the only seriously injured member of the crew which jumped 20 miles from here after losing its bearing while en route from Walker field, Kan., to Orlando, Fla. Copilot of the ship, Lt. Rogers suffered a broken right leg.

Although 19 men have been accounted for, one of these was still stranded in a swamp, waiting for rescue parties to arrive.

Soldier Bonus Bill Presented to Senate

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Legislation to set aside one-fourth of all state sales tax collections for state soldier bonus payments to be determined later was presented to the Illinois senate today.

The sponsor, Senator Charles W. Baker (R-Davis Junction), chairman of the important senate revenue committee, said the segregation of one-half cent of the two cent sales levy would allot about $22,000,000 per year to a bonus fund.

Baker said enactment of a specific soldier bonus plan at this session is unlikely and would be premature. But, he told a reporter, earmarking of the money for the purpose at this time "is essential so we'll have it when we need it later."

Many U. S. Soldiers Released From Nazi Prisons by Soviets

Reds, Poles Caring for Yanks Liberated in Russian Offensive

Moscow, Feb. 20—(AP)—The rapid advance of Russian armies has made possible the liberation of many United States officers and men from Nazi prison camps despite German attempts to evacuate prisoners from threatened areas.

Freeing of the Americans was disclosed by Maj. Gen. J. Russell Deane, chief of the U. S. military mission in Moscow, who said he had ordered an Army detachment to proceed to Lublin—where some of the liberated prisoners have assembled—to begin measures for their repatriation. Other groups of prisoners are known to be sheltered in Praga and farther west.

The total number of men freed was not estimated, but between 200 and 400 officers alone are reported among the Americans now in the care of the Poles and the Russians. Most of these gained their liberty in the confusion of the German evacuation of Stalag Oflag 64 at Szebini, near Bdygoszcz.

Three officers from the camp already have reached Moscow after hitch-hiking across Poland and part of Russia.

They are Capt. Ernest M. Gruenberg, 29, of New York City, a medical officer attached to the 101st Airborne Division; Lt. Frank H. Colley, 29, of Washington, Ga., a member of the 17th Field Artillery, and Lt. John N. Demling, Jr., 30, of Winston Salem, N. C., a member of the 30th Infantry. Gruenberg was captured in Normandy, Colley in Tunisia and Demling on the Anzio beachhead.

Colley reported that among the Americans liberated by the Russian offensive was Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, captured in France shortly after the invasion.

Capt. Gruenberg said that many of the escaped Americans now are fighting alongside the Russians inside Germany. One of these he identified as a "Captain Dunkleberg."

"Statements of our liberated soldiers and airmen all attest to the fact that those imprisoned by the Poles and Russians whether military or civilian," Deane said. "Within their power our allies have done everything they could to be kind, merciful and friendly."

Deane said that the prisoners released by the Germans had provided only a starvation diet for allied officers and men alike. They asserted a situation tantamount to mass murder would have resulted if Red Cross parcels had not implemented the diet.

Insufficient Food
Under the Geneva convention, the German army is obligated to provide the normal army ration to prisoners but those imprisoned in Poland received what civilian Poles received without opportunity to supplement it through black market purchases.

Two-thirds of a pound of bread was the principal food staple. Meat theoretically amounted to one-fifth pound weekly but actually the ration barely flavored soup for one meal. Breakfast was a cup of hot water. Three medium-sized potatoes and a dab of margarine rounded out the daily ration.

Oflag 64 has yielded the largest group of former prisoners thus far. It was moved westward Jan. 21 but the next day Soviet tanks cut off the principal tank transport column in which its personnel and prisoners were moving. The Germans then left American wounded behind and more than 100 from that camp escaped gained liberty at that time.

The German hospital for allied wounded at Wollenstein on the German border was not evacuated and all patients were reported to be safely in Russian hands.

Short Circuit Blamed For Initiation Death

St. Louis, Feb. 20—(AP)—A short circuit in an induction coil apparently caused the chemical explosion which resulted in the death of Robert G. Perry, 20, Harrisburg, Ill., during a fraternity initiation, the Rev. Alphonse Schwitalla, S. J., dean of the St. Louis university school of medicine, said last night.

A spark from the coil, used to induce shock, apparently exploded a nearby bottle of chemicals. Father Schwitalla said. He added about 20 other Phi Beta Pi pledges had gone through the same ceremony before the accident.

Indications were that four other students, including Peter Courri, 23, Peoria, Ill., were burned attempting to save Perry who died yesterday. Father Schwitalla said.

Woman Burns to Death in Three-Car Collision

Lincoln, Ill., Feb. 20—(AP)—Trapped in a flaming automobile which had raced out of control after a three-car collision, Mrs. Mable Butler, 54, Elkhardt, Ill., died yesterday of burns received in the accident.

Albert Butler, her husband, suffered serious burns and Albert Berger, Lincoln, driver of one of the other cars, was treated for scalp and chest injuries. The third automobile was driven by Peter Joyce, Springfield.

Corregidor Fight Small But Tough

An Aid Station on Corregidor, Island, Philippines, Feb. 18—(AP)—(Delayed)—This is a small rock. There aren't many Japanese here and we control most of the commanding points. But in the words of a soldier who survived the rough fight at Biak and went through the toughest part of the Leyte campaign without a scratch only to be wounded here today, "they play rough here."

Another private lay gasping in the broiling sun, with a gaping shoulder wound. A medical aide held a plasma jar above him. Before the plasma was half gone, the boy relaxed in death. The doctors and corpsmen kept on working in their tiny post as sniper bullets whistled overhead.

Fifteen minutes ago as this was written a soldier was wounded at a rocky bluff 200 yards away. Four stretcher bearers went after him with Japanese machine gun bullets kicking up dirt around them.

One bearer was hit and rolled down the hillside—but the others dropped behind some rocks until our mortars silenced the Japanese fire.

This is a small battlefield, but it is very real to the boys of the 44th Division and the 503rd Parachute Regiment whose job is to clear up Corregidor.

Pfc. Donald Messersmith, Princeville, Ill., spent 40 hours behind a rock only a little larger than his head. He was caught in the crossfire from two bypassed pillboxes. Peeping through a crack between the rocks he could see the Japanese at the entrance to a cave dug in Malinta hill.

Reveal FDR Talks in Egypt, Africa After Big 3 Meet

Washington, Feb. 20—(AP)—President Roosevelt conferred with Prime Minister Churchill at Alexandria, Egypt, after the Big Three meeting and received an other pledge of full support in the war against Japan after Germany's defeat.

In a formal summary of the president's activities since he left the Yalta meeting on the Black Sea Sunday, February 11, the White House said today Roosevelt invited General Charles De Gaulle, president of the provisional French government, to meet him in Algiers, French Morocco.

De Gaulle, the statement said, replied that official business prevented him from going to Algiers.

"Questions of mutual interest and importance to France and the United States are pending," the president said. "I wanted very much to see the general before leaving for home."

Upon leaving Livadia palace in the Crimea, Roosevelt motored along the Black Sea to Sevastopol and spent the night aboard an American Navy auxiliary ship.

Meets Egyptian King

The president's travels also included a conference aboard a United States warship in Great Bitter lake, through which the Suez canal passes, with King Farouk of Egypt. American-Egyptian relations were discussed.

Hailé Selassie I, emperor of Ethiopia, was received in the same setting and in this conference the president conversed in French.

King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia also was received by the president with impressive ceremony during the afternoon of the day following the reception of King Farouk and the Ethiopian emperor.

Algiers was described as the president's last stopping place abroad before leaving for Washington.

The White House announcement said Secretary of State Stettinius, en route from Moscow to make official calls in Liberia, southwest Africa, Brazil and then to the inter-American conference in Mexico City, was waiting to see the president in Alexandria where he reported on meetings with Foreign Commissar Molotov in Moscow. The conferences were described as "altogether satisfactory."

English Cousin's Domestic Troubles Told in Letter

Mrs. Eustace Shaw has received an interesting letter from a cousin residing in Leeds, England, which reads as follows:

"I am in receipt of your latest p. p. c. of Chicago. Undoubtedly it is a very fine city. Being situated on Lake Michigan must contribute a lot to its attraction. It looks well planned on spacious lines. I suppose that will be the way our newly built areas will be arranged and mistakes of the past improved upon.

"The housing problems here is most acute, and will be for years to come, as there has been no house building since the war started. Specimen houses of the new temporary type are being fixed up for the public to see, and for the first time in our history I think the kitchen has come into its own, and should be a pleasure for the future housewife to operate.

"War has fallen hard on the housewife, no domestic help can be obtained, or very little, and, of course, shopping is really difficult, and cooking is really a problem not that we have not enough to eat—we have—but over diet is so deadly monotonous and after five years of it at home one yearns for a change. Particularly is this so when you are not feeling over well and require a little tempting, you cast jaundiced eye over what you have and then settle down again to the old diet, and think how much you would enjoy some English lamb and mint sauce, etc., instead of the improper meat you are eating.

"The summer weather last year was appalling. During the autumn the weather was so bad that even yet a lot of potatoes are in the ground and rotting, (shortage of laborers was also a contributing cause). Now we are short of potatoes and it is quite possible they will have to be rationed. I believe they are in some places.

"We are well off in many respects in this city. I made a New Year vow not to grumble about things, as we have so much to be thankful for. It must be terrible to have to sleep continuously in a shelter as many people in the south are compelled to do. We are having very wintry conditions and many people are having to face them without coal. I stocked up as much as my ration permitted in the summer so I am all right in that respect.

"I got a few peanuts at Christmas but have given them to the birds. I am afraid they too are suffering from war conditions. I cannot bear to see them hopping about hungrily in the snow. It is surprising how tame they get when hungry. I have always a bird or two hopping on the window sill for the nuts which I put out for the blue-tits, but I am afraid the sparrows got the lion's share.

"It is most kind of you to bother about what you could send me and as you are so insistent, I think I should love some sweets, candy or you. Twelve ounces for a four week period, don't go very far and at times I do long for sweet things. I never taste sugar in tea or coffee, my one-half pound ration has to be used for cooking purposes. You can understand us craving for sweet things. We all do at times. Let us hope that peace will be established this year."

Supply Bill for Treasury, Postal Dept. Is Approved

Washington, Feb. 20—(AP)—Highlighted by a $4,500,000,000 item for interest on the national debt, a $9,163,071,163 supply bill for the treasury and postoffice departments was approved Monday by the house appropriations committee.

It is to finance the two agencies during the 12 months starting next July 1.

Only $1,342,813,090 of the total are direct appropriations, for actual operations of the two agencies, the balance consisting of so-called permanent and indefinite appropriations for such things as debt interest and tax refunds.

The $4,500,000,000 interest estimated for 1946 is an increase of $730,000,000 over estimated current year payments for that purpose. It assumes that the national debt will be $222,000,000,000 by June 30, 1946, an increase of $58,000,000,000 over the present debt.

The treasury's share of the total direct appropriations is $255,763,800, a reduction of $10,748,300 from budget estimates and $4,688,497 below appropriations for the present year.

F. O. Budget Decreased
For the postoffice department, the bill carries $1,057,049,290 in direct funds, a reduction of $8,456,450 from budget estimates and a decrease of $55,185,232 from current year appropriations.

However, the committee pointed out, neither fund provides for overtime payment to employees because congress has not yet extended the wartime overtime pay act.

Should it be extended, the total funds required next year would exceed the total appropriated for this year.

The committee emphasized in a written report sending the bill to the house for debate starting possibly tomorrow that the postoffice department expects to pile up an operating surplus of $265,214,280 during the next fiscal year. This expected surplus will be cut by approximately $110,000,000 if the overtime pay act is extended.

Trib Says Ban Against Reds in Army Lifted

Chicago, Feb. 20—(AP)—The Chicago Tribune said Monday in a Washington dispatch that the war department has issued a directive countermanding "previous confidential instructions barring communists from officer training and some 19 various assignments involving military security."

"The directive states" the Tribune said, "that no prejudicial action shall be taken on the basis of membership in the communist party or allegiance to the communist party unless it can be proved such loyalty supersedes loyalty to the United States."

"It also states that no individual shall suffer because his views on social questions are the same as the view the communist party has advanced."

Ringworm of Scalp Plagues Many Students

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20—(AP)—Ringworm of the scalp is affecting hundreds of Illinois school children in "one of the severest epidemics in history," the state health department reported Monday.

A highly infectious disease, ringworm is produced by a fungus type of organism. It may be carried by pet dogs and cats. Infected hair often appears to be nibbled off. The disorder usually is limited to from three to a dozen small coin-sized patches, wholly or partly covered by white, gray or yellowish scales and resulting in itching in various degrees.

The department recommended exclusion of ringworm patients from school.

FRANK PRIEBE'S Weekly Letter - TO - POULTRY RAISERS

The poultry industry has just been given an order for about 70 million chickens.

That's the approximate number it will take to produce the 70 million pounds of canned chicken the Army is going to need this year. This canned chicken will be used in hospitals, Army field rations, and for shipment overseas. This order for canned chicken is in addition to the enormous quantity of dressed poultry the Army will need—which will undoubtedly be at least as much as last year, and my guess is that it will probably be more.

To make sure there will be poultry available for canning, the War Food Administration just last week issued a set-aside order on all eviscerated (ready to cook) poultry.

Besides wanting to make sure they have enough for canning, I think the Army found out, when it bought eviscerated poultry for its field maneuvers, just how convenient it is.

Under the present order, no ready-to-cook poultry will be available to civilians unless it is released by the WFA.

Start Chicks Quickly

How much regular dressed poultry they will be able to buy will depend on how many chicks are raised this year.

Certainly there's no doubt that there will be an enormous demand for poultry. Any talk of too many chicks is completely out of date. All the chicks we can raise won't be enough to supply the demand.

Last week, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, government food officials said that by the middle of the summer "meat may virtually disappear from civilian markets."

Will there be chickens on the markets then? It's up to you. Last fall government officials were telling you to raise fewer chicks. Shortly after the first of the year they began to say, "Start as many as you did last year," and I'm not going to be surprised if—within a few weeks—they start asking you to raise more.

The people who were wise and started their chicks early are going to be glad they did.

If I were you, and didn't have chicks yet, I'd get them into the brooder house just as soon as I could get them from the hatchery. Your won't be sorry!

Dairy Cattle Demand Easy Access to Water

In addition to the water consumed as moisture in the feed, a dairy cow should have from 3½ to 5½ pounds of water for each pound of milk produced, according to W. W. Yapp, professor of dairy cattle husbandry, University of Illinois College of Agriculture. This large requirement for water, especially for the heavy producing cow, indicates how essential it is that milk cows have ready access to it.

Experimental evidence by the U. S. Department of Agriculture reveals that when a cow has water available to drink at all times, she will, on the average, drink 10 times a day. When she has opportunity to drink but twice a day, with the water at the same temperature there is a reduction of 2.8 per cent in yield of milk compared to having continuous access. At the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station under like conditions, a difference of 3½ per cent was reported.

Present atmospheric conditions suggest the importance of warming drinking water for milk cows. Consideration of this practice by the dairyman is encouraged as one means of getting animals to drink sufficient quantities of water to satisfy their requirements during a high level of production.

Various types of water heaters using coal, oil or electricity have given satisfactory results. A water temperature of about 60-70 F. is suggested as most desirable during cold winter days.

Increased Supplies of Potash Available

"It looks as though Illinois farmers may be favored with more available potash fertilizer supplies this year," Farm Adviser C. E. Yale reported this week. "Farmers have been handicapped for the past several years in getting enough potash."

The War Food Administration has reported that the supply of potash will be nearly twice as large as was used by farmers before the war and about 20 per cent more than last year.

Prospects for nitrogen and superphosphate for use in 1945 have been going down as a result of

'45 Crops Needs 92,000 Labor

It will take 4,000,000 people here on the home front to volunteer for farm jobs if our fighting men, our hungry allies and our own population here in the United States are to be fed this year.

In making this statement, P. E. Johnston, state farm labor supervisor, said: "There have been 1,200,000 United States farmers, farm boys and other farm workers called to the armed services since 1940, and 2,500,000 farm men and farm women have gone into permanent industrial jobs during that period."

The state farm labor office estimates that 92,000 workers not now engaged in agriculture will be needed to plant, cultivate and harvest the 1945 crop in Illinois.

Farm wage rates are now the highest on record for Illinois, and the number of available farm workers has dropped to the lowest point in history, Johnston stated. "It can thus be seen," he added, "that, while Illinois farmers faced what seemed an almost insurmountable problem last year in securing proper help, the outlook for 1945 is even less bright. Favorable weather this past fall greatly eased the farm labor problem, and on the other side of the picture bad weather during critical crop periods can further greatly complicate it."

Johnston also mentioned that in 1944 Illinois farmers harvested the largest crop in 25 years despite the handicaps mentioned. He gave the credit to sharing of machinery and labor by farmers and the help given by volunteer women and girls and boys of high school age, and stated that his office placed more than 84,000 workers during the year.

"Even if the war should end tomorrow, the need will be critical through the 1945 crop season," he added.

Increasing military demands for some of the materials used in fertilizer production. Farmers can, however, expect more nitrogen and superphosphate than was used in war years 1935-39—60 per cent more nitrogen and 45 per cent more presuperphosphate. Compared with last year, the supply for farmers will be perhaps 10 per cent less for nitrogen and 7 per cent less for superphosphate.

Yale Suggests Reuse of All Burlap Sacks

Farm Adviser C. E. Yale suggested this week to Lee county farmers that conservation and reuse of burlap bags will be necessary wherever possible during the coming year. With a serious shortage of new bags, farmers will find it to their advantage to take extra care of those on hand. Unless burlap bags are conserved, the War Food Administration reports "there may not be enough new bags to meet essential farm needs."

One of the country's biggest farm cooperatives reported not long ago that 87 per cent of the bags it was using each month were second-hand. Only 13 per cent were new.

The American public was traveling more and further during 1944. Railroad passenger travel was up nearly 10 per cent during 1944 with a total of 96,000,000,000 passenger miles.

Gives Suggestions to Ease Shortage of Alfalfa Seed

Three suggestions to help ease the serious shortage of alfalfa seed stocks were given Illinois farmers this week by R. F. Fuelleman, assistant professor of crop production, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

1. Red, mammoth, alsike or sweet clover should be substituted for alfalfa if possible.

2. This situation will be eased if a mixture containing an increased proportion of other clovers can be used.

3. If the intentions are to seed bromo-alfalfa seed this spring and a supply is not available, seeding should be postponed until next fall. By that time the situation may be improved.

In southern Illinois where lespeyde can be used this spring, it can be seeded as a stop-gap until more alfalfa is available. Lespeyde seed is both abundant and relatively low in price.

Red, mammoth and alsike clover make good hay, especially if mixed with some timothy or bromograss, and they are also good for pasture and green manure.

Bromegrass goes well with red or sweet clover, or both, and can be handled much the same as timothy and red clover mixture. Sufficient supplies of red and mammoth clover are available, but sweet and alsike clover seeds are short. Sweet clover is much in demand, and some difficulty will be experienced in meeting the demand.

Production of alfalfa seed this year was about 10 per cent less than in 1943 and 10-12 per cent smaller than the ten-year average 1933-1942. Alfalfa seed needs have increased during recent years. Decreases this year are largely attributable to a smaller yield per acre, which has offset a slightly larger acreage harvested this year.

"During the past three years the United States and Canada have been running so close to the bottom of the seed barrel that it is dangerous," Fuelleman declared. "A partial crop failure of alfalfa, with the small carry-over during these years, could be disastrous. The situation suggests that everything possible be done to stretch alfalfa seed supplies."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Jacksonville, Fla.—Words and lyrics in praise of Henry Wallace are blowing over the country from the Washington and New York typewriters and mimeograph machines, furious words and thunderous lyrics.

Here they sound like the old wind and rain machines of the 10, 20 and 30 cent melodramas which made Eliza's crossing of stage ice so perilous and awful—for those who can be easily convinced. The Wallace grinders moan and howl:

"If you're for Roosevelt, you're for Wallace" (signed National Business Men's Committee for Wallace.)

"Wallace is a Yankee business man, howls Morgenstern" (signed of geography which has certified Yankees in New England where Wallace has never been, except on political trips)

"The reactionary senators are trying to defeat the common man," moans a Florida columnist whose opinion is being republished throughout the state as a paid advertisement.

Why? Wallace is defeated. He was defeated within 48 hours after his nomination for secretary of commerce was sent to the senate.

Defeated for the only important aspect of his appointment, control of the lending agencies.

I know certainly Roosevelt called him in and talked to him then about giving up this $40,000,000 part of the commerce secretary's job although Wallace then still wanted to go through with both jobs. Without that RFC, the commerce secretaryship is the least important cabinet office.

He was defeated not by a few "reactionary" senators, but by complete outraged majorities of the congress recently elected by the people with Roosevelt for the fourth term. They just would not stand for putting a farmer in to handle the new deal's financial lending empire.

Why all this hullabaloo, then? Why this fake campaign? It is a fake, because it simply is not true that if you are for Roosevelt, you are for Wallace.

Roosevelt himself, had to discard Wallace for the presidential campaign; is being compelled by congress now again to discard him that everything American is "the best in the world."

These reports cover such things as artillery, tanks and winter boots. They mention flying bombs and jet-propelled fighters. Our belated construction of these aerial weapons apparently imitates the German models now in action. And at last report our entries were still in the test stage.

Thus we seem to be lagging already in the type of weapon which future wars might bring. One good way of forestalling these future wars is scientific research to prevent any country's getting the tremendous technical head start Germany enjoyed in this conflict.

for which few think him suited.

It is not true that he is either a Yankee or a business man. It is not true that the opposition represents reactionism while he represents the common man.

Looking at it only from the Roosevelt liberal or any democratic viewpoint, the common man would best be served by an efficient management of the banks and lending companies through RFC in the interests of the government.

A man who knows nothing of such hard-boiled highly technical management could cause the whole RFC empire to fall into a mess within a few months, disrupting the proposed job-lending and ruin the country. Would that help the common man?

In my solemn, sincere opinion, Wallace could be useful in that job only for those who want to ruin the country. You would not hire a physician to do your dentistry or a dentist to take out your appendix, not unless you wanted the patient to die.

Why this campaign? The only possible explanation, it seems to me, is this:

Radical leadership in this country has fallen far below par. The latest Hillman-CIO movement clearly was so uninspiring from its own standpoint that it searched for a more respectable front, even during the campaign, trying to get the late senator George Norris to head it.

Immediately after the election it started an ill-founded fight on the Stettinius aides and got only about one-tenth of the vote of the senate.

Now it is trying to stir up just as ill-grounded and foolish a campaign to build Wallace up as a front for its activities.

From the way they are going about it, I judge they expect to make the people believe Wallace a tin-god from his defeat, a martyr for the "common man", a respectable show window for future use. Wallace is an honest, decent person and thus suitable for that purpose. He is not acute to the workings of those who have been using him for some time. Human and friendly, he has never been accused of being smart, or gifted with the qualities in sight for leadership.

The movement, therefore, is not likely to succeed. The leadership is still inept. True liberalism in the real interests of the people will not gain its day until young new men who are both clever and honest, now unknown, arise to take hold of it and lead it away from its current course of humbuggery and quackery which would hardly deceive a modern child.

were already bustling toward the rear of the room.

"Wait! Will you please wait!"

It was too late. Josef Elsner had caught the name Louis Pleyel on a silver nameplate on a polished mahogany door that gave off the main salon.

"PLEYEL! How are you!"

The finery, the elegance of the private office went unnoticed. Josef Elsner had no eyes nor mind for anything but the person of Louis Pleyel—squat, tight-lipped, narrow-eyed Louis Pleyel.

"My dear friend!" Elsner reached across the desk to pump at a spanking rate the limp hand of a startled Louis Pleyel. "Yes—the same Louis—you look wonderful—you de, Louis. How glad—how happy I am to see you!"

Josef Elsner dropped Pleyel's hand. "—Louis, I brought him!"

Josef Elsner's jaw shot out. He turned to present Frederic. But there was no one in the room but himself and Louis Pleyel.

"—Frederic!"

Josef Elsner's jaw dropped. He stretched his neck. He looked about, then he went to the door and looked outside. "Tch, tch. What's the matter with you? Come in!"

Frederic came in, his carpetbag in one hand, his hat in the other, with bundles under both arms.

"—Monsieur Pleyel wants to look at you," Josef Elsner pulled Frederic close to Pleyel's desk. "Here he is, Louis. What did I tell you? As good as my word. Frederic, open your mouth."

Frederic said: "Monsieur."

"Tch, tch. Shake his hand, Frederic. This is Monsieur Pleyel. Shake his hand!"

Frederic put down his carpetbag. He held out his hand. Pleyel reached across the desk to take it but from his puzzled expression it seemed a surprising thing, even to himself, that he should do it.

"Chopin," Frederic said, when it was plain Monsieur Pleyel could not place the name.

Louis Pleyel looked blankly first at one, then the other.

Fair Enough WESTBROOK PEGLER

The simplest way to smash the secrecy which has been imposed on the American press in matters which do not involve the safety of fighting forces or the president, is to violate the censorship definitely and challenge Roosevelt to do his worst.

The White House correspondents, being at a disadvantage and in a false, semi-social position, will shrink from such conduct and may be pardoned for continuing to conceal from the people harmless news which is entrusted to them under the seal of confidence. But there is nothing to prevent individuals from withdrawing from the circle formally with a warning that henceforth they will obey their own judgment. Such reporters would be barred from the Roosevelt press conferences, but that would be no loss either to the individual or to the public.

Any good reporter can pick up outside the press conferences and outside the intimacy of the White House as much information as he can get by maintaining his standing in the band and feel free to use it according to his discretion. The majority, continuing to adhere, subject to the restrictions, would be able to continue their routine recitals of sited and adulterated news and Roosevelt's stilled and one-sided repartee, for what it is worth to the public if anything.

White House news has, to a large extent, been made a commodity and perquisite sold through a racket. The regular reporters get the routine stuff but favored individuals, notably Harry Hopkins, so long a guest of the nation, are allowed to sell for their personal profit more important bits which the whole press deserves by reason of its position. To be sure, the newspapers and press associations are governed by the profit motive. But it is not news which they sell but their unique and peculiar talents in learning news and their service in disseminating the same.

Their position has been recognized in the very custom of holding press conferences for if their function were not legitimate and a public service, the conferences their position, they have a responsibility to the public not to accept unnecessary and unreasonable restraints and to withdraw from agreements which hamper them in the fulfillment of their legitimate obligations. If, then, all independent members of the conference were to decide, tomorrow, to boycott these meetings and rely on their own resourcefulness and discretion, always mindful of the requirement to check facts, Roosevelt would be more at loss than the press. For it is a fact that, far more flagrantly than Herbert Hoover, who was accused of leading his conferences with questions which he could answer for his own benefit, Roosevelt has conducted his classes as a propagandist by methods which rarely have permitted him to be shown at a disadvantage. He has his ideological and political claque always on hand to feed him easy questions, to laugh at his pedagogical humor and to snap it off when the going gets rough. And on the few occasions when he has come out of these encounters wearing long, fuzzy ears he was the author of his own embarrassment, through the fault of his patronizing over-confidence. One such occasion was his unguarded remark that the column was an exercise wherein his own spouse, the conductor of not one column but two, fielded her due share of sprigs from the bouquet.

In the recent situation, when Hopkins and Ed Stettinius were interviewed and photographed in Europe, Washington reporters, not members of the White House circle, would have been justified in writing that these two were overseas and bound on another pilgrimage to Stalin. Hopkins, certainly, is not a national treasure deserving the precautions which are conceded to the president for the sake of his personal safety. Stettinius, although he is secretary of state, already has been placed in Europe by dispatches from overseas. Therefore no American reporter, knowing that they were abroad and why, and having obtained the information without obligation, could have been blamed much less punished, for telling the news in defiance of the censorship, which has no legal support.

The standard American press, as distinguished from our relatively few totalitarian papers, most of them published in New York, is noted among the journalists of the entire world for its respect for confidence. This is at once a great virtue and a serious weakness, often imposed upon by Roosevelt to the injury of not only the papers, themselves, but of their readers and to the danger of the freedom of the press. For if this American press, enjoying this freedom, shall enter secret agreements to withhold news where there is no justification for the secrecy, then it is defaulting a duty which that freedom imposes.

If, the next time, Roosevelt goes to Hyde Park, some reporter learning of this, subject to no confidential obligation, should file the story, allowing him time to arrive, that would be a helpful challenge to a system of censorship which has imposed on the press and its readers unreasonably. I intend to do it myself. At Hyde Park he is guarded by a royal household garrison and is no more exposed to danger than he is in the White House. Moreover, during the autumn campaign he not only rode through the streets of eastern cities openly, seeking votes, but made tailboard orations to unselected crowds in Connecticut in his futile attempt to elect the candidate of the communists for congress. It would be fair, also, to state the number of Pullman cars used in such travels strictly for the recreation of a public servant whose task is no more trying, for all our emotional propaganda, than the labors of many other, unofficial workers in the prosecution of the war, some of whom actually have died of strain.

The impudence of this censorship and fraternal secrecy was flagrantly expressed in the episode of Elliott Roosevelt's dog. It should not have taken more than an hour to go to the files, produce the actual priority by which this beast was illegally freighted across the country to the degradation of the three service men and the delay of important military freight, identify the officer who authorized it and start a court martial.

Instead, by a conspiracy of confusion, evasion and concealment, this little act of office routine took weeks. Now a plain violation of law and military orders for which, in other circumstances, the guilty men would have been degraded if not canned from the service, has been excused as "a sort of favor." In the end, all the guilty officers including generals of the American Army, have taken refuge behind the skirts of a woman, Anna Boettiger, Roosevelt's daughter. By normal standards this would be a contemptible position but in an Army badly infected with dirty politics it represents chivalry.

Lady Nearly Choked While Lying in Bed-- Due to Stomach Gas

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at nights. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat. Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got ERE-HELP and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

ERE-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, aid on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERE-HELP at any Drug Store here in Dixon.

A SONG to REMEMBER

by Willard Wiener

THE STORY: After Frederic Chopin has refused to play before the new Communist governor of Poland at Count Wodinski's dinner party, his friends warn him to leave the country. He and Josef Elsner leave Poland in the dead of night, and arrive in Paris several days later.

XIII

LOUIS PLEYEL

THE name imprinted in flowering letters on the window in the Rue de Rochechouard, said Pleyel to Cie.

Frederic looked anything but his best and Josef Elsner looked even worse, if that were possible. Their clothes were travel worn and besides, they were burdened with carpetbags and bundles. They had not stopped to arrange for lodgings. They had not even washed. Josef Elsner said there would be time for that. The dust and dirt of the road could wait. That was nothing. Louis Pleyel was everything. They were in Paris and first they must pay respects to Louis Pleyel.

Frederic held back. He put his hand to his mouth to smother a cough. Josef Elsner took his arm, then pushed on the door and together they went in.

A center aisle divided the room, on either side of which were pianos, if not the finest in the world, certainly among the best known. Each carried the name Pleyel.

A middle-aged clerk met them midway up the aisle. "Yes, Messieurs?"

"Monsieur Pleyel, please."

The clerk raised his eyebrows. "Monsieur Pleyel?"

"Yes, Monsieur Pleyel. You will say to him, Monsieur, that Professor—"

"—Humph. He doesn't even listen."

"Professor, don't you think—"

"Tch, tch. Your music—where is it?"

Frederic had his manuscripts rolled in a bundle. The bundle was under his arm. Elsner took it hastily. He unwrapped it.

"—Fine—excellent!" He spread the sheets out on one of the pianos. He inspected them, one at a time.

"—What music! Patience, my boy—patience—that's what I always say—patience. We'll pick out the best—the very best—for immediate publication, and we should have, let me see, at least a half a dozen—"

"WHAT is it you wish to see, Monsieur Pleyel about?"

Josef Elsner looked up from the manuscripts into the face of a pompous man with very red cheeks.

"Did you ask for Monsieur Pleyel?"

"—I asked for no one else!"

Josef Elsner adjusted his spectacles to his nose. "You are not Monsieur Pleyel?"

"No."

Josef Elsner grinned. "I know Monsieur Pleyel."

"Thank you, Monsieur. All Paris knows Monsieur Pleyel."

"Tch, tch. It wasn't yesterday I shook his hand. Nevertheless I can tell you, Monsieur, he is still my good warm friend. Who are you?"

"DuPont—Henri DuPont."

"DuPont!" Josef Elsner threw out his arms. "Ah! DuPont! DuPont only drew back. 'My good friend—Henri DuPont! I am Elsner—Josef Elsner. Frederic, think of it—we are in Paris—and this is Henri DuPont! Monsieur DuPont—Frederic, Frederic—Monsieur DuPont!'"

Josef Elsner pulled out his kerchief. He dabbed his face with it. "Tch, tch. Monsieur Pleyel in?"

"He is in, but—"

"—Enough! You will tell him—no—not a word. It will be a surprise! Forgive me, Monsieur; forgive me."

The Professor returned the kerchief to his pocket. He glanced at Frederic's name and together they

D. A. R. Sponsors Junior American Citizens Clubs

The Daughters of the American Revolution, under the guidance of the state chairman, Mrs. Franklin Watkins, are working and sponsoring Junior American Citizens clubs throughout the state of Illinois. There are 377 Junior American Citizens club in Illinois and 8,644 members, and 7,313 clubs in the United States with a total membership of 247,576 members.

These club are organized in the schools, churches and social service centers to make the children aware of their land and their heritage and teach them to be real patriots, and to promote the right kind of youthful citizenship. Classes are taught such subject's as: the forming of a United Nation, colonizing our country, historic landmarks such as Plymouth Rock, Independence Hall, Sunkers Hill, Mt. Vernon, national symbols, the American flag, Statue of Liberty, great seal and the Americans' creed.

It teaches them of the citizen and his government, lessons on health and new citizens, about immigrants, and Ellis Island. This committee gets to the heart of the nation—it's children—so they may then have a brighter and more secure world in which to live.

Both the national and state conventions of the organization are being canceled this year due to wartime travel restrictions. The 54th continental congress of the D.A.R. was to have been held at the Stevens hotel in Chicago on April 16, 17, 18 and 19.

At a national board meeting in Washington the first of the month, which was attended by Mrs. J. Dresden. This said Konev had cut the Sorau-Gorlitz railway on a 2 1/2 to 3 miles stretch at an undisturbed point, and had "temporarily" captured Rothwasser, 10 miles northeast of Gorlitz. Rothwasser, 19 miles from the Saxon border, was later retaken by the Germans, Transocean added.

Report Reds "Checked". Russian advances on Guben were "checked," Transocean said. Fighting of "the bitterest type" is raging in this sector between the Bober and Neisse rivers, a Transocean broadcast said.

Transocean made no mention of Nazi counterattacks which the Germans last night said had rewon Guben, and Sommerfeld, Sorau, and Sagan, on a 35-mile line to the southeast of Guben. Moscow never has claimed fall of Guben, but announced the capture of the other three last week.

"No new German reports are available on the situation in Guben, from which Russian tank spearheads were dislodged yesterday," Transocean added.

An earlier Transocean broadcast indicated Sagan had again been lost, by defining a battleline placed west of that Bober river city.

Moscow dispatches said the Red army despite Nazi counterattacks was clinging to its positions in front of the Oder-Spree line south-east of Berlin, "while carrying out what may be some of the most important consolidations of this phase of the war."

Anticipate Dividends. Field dispatches to Moscow said Konev and Marshal Gregory Zhukov were warding off Nazi blows "in strategic moves which promise shortly to pay dividends when the drive on the capital is resumed."

Konev and Zhukov were attempting to weld their flanks securely in the area of Crossen 16 miles northeast of Guben, in readiness for an offensive upon Berlin. Crossen lies south of the Oder.

A Russian push farther north had carried within 47 miles of Danzig, capturing the Polish corridor town of Nowe (Neuenburg).

The German command said a new Russian offensive had opened north of Ratibor, on the upper Oder 85 miles southeast of Breslau, "after German defensive successes of the past two days."

As for Breslau, Transocean said all Soviet blows in an "all-out" attempt to take the Silesian capital had been beaten off.

Battles Fluctuate. Battles are fluctuating in the Pzitz area 22 miles southeast of Stettin where Zhukov is fighting toward the Baltic, the German communiqué said, while in East Prussia other Russians are attacking violently on the Samland peninsula west of Königsberg despite a bombardment by the German Baltic fleet.

The Berlin radio said the German situation was critical in the Tucheler forest area of the Polish corridor and west of the Vistula where the Soviets are pointed toward Danzig.

The Moscow communiqué declared 1,500 Germans were slain when they tried to break out of encircled Grudziadz, 10 miles south of Nowe.

Moscow admitted a reverse for Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army troops on the Danube valley route to Vienna. The communiqué said Malinovsky had been forced to yield several communities east of Komarom to counterattacks by large German infantry forces and two tank divisions. Komarom lies along the Danube 40 miles northwest of fallen Budapest and 84 miles east of Vienna.

Add Senator George (D-Ga.) to the senate bloc opposing Aubrey Williams' confirmation as rural electrification administrator. The Georgian says he will not vote for "any more third and fourth rate administrators for federal posts." The agriculture committee probably will not act on the nomination for about 10 days.

Chaplin Baby Retrial

Scheduled for April 4

Los Angeles, Feb. 20 (AP)—The retrial of Joan Berry's paternity suit against Charles Chaplin has been set for April 4. Attorneys for both parties agreed to the earlier date although retrial of the civil action originally had been set for May 2.

Miss Berry, 24, alleges that Chaplin is the father of her daughter, Carol Ann, 16 months. Chaplin denies paternity. The first trial ended in a jury deadlock last month.

blackened steel city of Saarbrücken. The Seventh, at least 11 divisions and 155,000 men strong, was applying increasing pressure in its limited offensive at the fringe of the packed arsenal region.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Army captured Etzling, 3 1/2 miles south of Saarbrücken, and Oetting less than a mile from Forbach, French border town of 11,500. High ground overlooking Forbach was seized.

In Germany at New Point

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Third Army stormed into Germany at a new point, capturing Wincheringen, a mile across the border east of Luxembourg city and five miles from the fortified road hub of Saarburg. The 94th Division seized four towns along a four-mile front between Saarbrücken and Trier, Germany's oldest city and birthplace of Karl Marx.

The 94th captured Oberleuken, Kesslingen, Faha and Munzingen, from two to three miles east and southeast of Sinz and six inside Germany. The cluster of villages is about eight miles northwest of the Saarland industrial city of Merzig.

The Roer river, like the Rhine and Meuse, was receding. When its flood waters return to banks in the 36 miles from the opened dam gates to Roermond, the American First and Ninth Armies and the British Second will be able to strike toward Cologne, the Rhineland and the Ruhr. Indeed the Germans said the Ninth had attempted a crossing at Linlich, where the Roer still was wide and angry.

Plan Vise on Nazis

When the massed might of the three allied armies on the Roer is applied, the Germans before Cologne, Duesseldorf and Duisburg will be squeezed in a vise west of the Rhine, with the Canadian army as its northern jaw.

The Scottish troops of the Canadian Army went with flashing bayonets after the last Germans resisting in ancient Goch, center of eight military raids and once a town of 13,500. After 24 hours of house fighting, the whole northern part of the town was cleared and only a tiny sector of the southern portion was holding out.

The Germans already were shelling Goch.

A thousand nazis surrendered yesterday, boasting the total for the northern campaign above 9,000.

Skies Clearing

Father east, Canadian troops cut across the Goch-Calcar road about two miles west of Calcar and beat off repeated counterattacks in all night fighting. Some troops were within a mile of Calcar.

Supported by tanks, German infantry charged again and again but when dawn broke, the Canadians were firmly astride the road.

Pilots had clearer skies today than on yesterday, when 3,000 sorties were flown. Chances were that the attacks of obliteration would increase before dusk on key points in the present battle of the Rhine—and the coming campaign beyond it.

action was favorable, following the line of James Hone, of Seattle, secretary and board chairman of the Independent Theater Owners of Washington, northern Idaho and Alaska, who said:

"We will continue to do all we can to cooperate in the war effort. If they asked us to close at noon, we would."

Congressional comment also varied.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio): "That doesn't make me mad I suppose that its greatest effect will be in New York City."

Representative Baldwin (R-N.Y.): "No such current is sounded in London or Paris—and I don't think it necessary."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) said the deadline "if kept for any length of time, would bring the speakeasy back."

Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) said he didn't believe the speakasies would be set up "just for the few hours after midnight."

The War Today

Rhine. The latter would be desperately hazardous. One of the most difficult military operations is to cross a great river with an army in retreat, especially in these days of air-power.

Now about that time element: Many things are contributing to the dissolution of Hitler's Third Reich, which most certainly is speeding towards total collapse, but one of the chief factors that will determine the length of the war will be the weather. That's the prime source of the mixed fortunes of war in western Europe at this time of year.

Of course, as this column has remarked previously, when things have reached such a state of chaos as now exists in Germany, the end might come at any time. However, barring a break in morale, Nazi endurance will depend on military developments, and they in turn will depend heavily on the weather. Bad weather fights for the defending Germans. It's what has been holding up our offensive in the Rhineland.

One of the greatest handicaps which the allies suffer as the result of bad weather is the hamstringing of the air services. The heavy bombers can do some work by instrument, but frequently the tactical fleets—the fighter-bombers which depend on visibility rather than on instruments—are grounded.

We had a striking illustration of that last week when, after a long spell of bad flying weather, the allied fleets were able to get into action again and raised havoc throughout the Reich. In one period of 48 hours we had 11,000 planes over Germany, and Red planes swarmed the eastern front.

The results were catastrophic for the Hitlerites. Not only did wholesale co-operation with the Red armies (likely a result of the Crimean parley of the Big Three) greatly aid the Russian offensive, but the bombers raked centers like Berlin and Dresden, tore at Hitler's rapidly disappearing war industries, and poured destruction into his transportation systems.

It need hardly be added that bombardment of cities is a fierce strain on civilian morale. However, let's say the Germans can "take it." The fact remains that Hitler can't stand the material damage which is done to his war machine.

The allied difficulty is that bad flying weather is likely to continue in western Europe until about the first of April. Then the spring thaws will turn eastern Europe into a bog. Time will tell whether these things will bring Hitler a respite. We must figure that they might.

Stassen Okays Invite To Attend Conference

Washington, Feb. 20—(AP)—

Commander Harold E. Stassen said today he considers his appointment by President Roosevelt to the San Francisco United Nations conference a political liability.

"However," Stassen told a news conference, "you can't weight a matter of that kind with anything as serious as a nation's hope to prevent another world war."

"I am a Republican," he said. "Weighing the whole thing, Republicans are apt to look upon it as a political liability. However I have not the least hesitation in accepting the appointment, whatever is entailed."

Stassen, a member of Admiral William F. Halsey's staff, said he would be granted leave from the Navy to attend the conference adding he will go "in civilian clothes free to speak, act and think as I wish."

He said he and other members of Halsey's staff are in Washington under orders to report to Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet and chief of Naval operations.

Nurses Draft Bill Approved in House

Washington, Feb. 20—(AP)—

A nurses draft bill applicable to all unmarried graduate nurses between 20 and 44, both ages inclusive, was approved today by the house military committee.

The legislation is intended to meet President Roosevelt's request for a law to provide 20,000 nurses immediately for the Army and the Navy.

It provides for deferment of Veterans Administration nurses and gives the War Manpower Commission authority to order the deferment of any woman engaged in essential civilian nursing service.

The measure also requires the induction of graduate cadet nurses before non-cadets may be drafted. Cadet graduates may be deferred only on grounds of dependency, family relationship or physical disability.

While not specifically providing for the commission the bill requires that inducted nurses shall be assigned only to duty in which their professional skill "will be used in accordance with military requirements."

Military pilots are now eligible for commercial certificates under a new amendment to the Civil Air Regulations.

Parliament Quips With Chief About 3 "Key" Subjects

London, Feb. 20—(AP)—

Prime Minister Churchill informed the House of Commons today that "affairs abroad are rather smoother" in his first public reference to the Big Three meeting at Yalta.

The house learned however that it must wait until next week for a full report on the Crimea conference, and meanwhile goats, sharks and British double summertime shared the prime minister's attention.

In order, these subjects were placed before the prime minister in a matching of wits and quips with Britain's lawmakers:

1. The goats. Would he tell Commons "in view of the shortage of milk x x x whether part of German reparation in kind will include 100,000 milk goats for Scotland and 1,000,000 for England, North Ireland and Wales?" The premier passed that one until tomorrow.

2. The sharks. What is Britain doing about following up the American development of a "shark chasing" device for protection of seamen and airmen? "We're watching it," replied Churchill, adding: "You may rest assured the British government are entirely opposed to sharks."

3. And British double summertime. Would he assure Commons it would not be imposed? "I certainly cannot," said the prime minister. Asked if he were aware that double summertime limited food production, Churchill sidestepped. "It's a very old question and I remember 40 years ago being acquainted with that argument," he said.

Churchill returned to London yesterday after stopovers at Athens and Cairo. He was greeted with a rousing cheer when he walked into the House of Commons.

He and Secretary Anthony Eden lost little time in stepping into the rigorous give and take of parliamentary debate. Eden announced that Tuesday and Wednesday of next week would be allocated to debate on the Crimea conference.

Say Only 905 Survived Sunken German Liner

A Finnish radio broadcast Sunday said the liner was sunk while evacuating refugees and sailors
